Job Description

I am currently working on behalf of the largest London developer who build prestigious properties in prime London locations.

As the properties are so high end it is important that they are marketed in the same way which is why they are currently looking to recruit a Marketing Manager to be based on one of their developments in Zone 1

I am ideally looking to recruit someone who has good knowledge of marketing materials for new build properties & how to write proposals. It is important that you know what is at stake when it comes to advertising the properties and will remain professional at all time

If you are interested in applying for this role please do so below or for more information please contact Zoe Georgiou
